Problem 5 – Store Inventory

Statement

A shop supplies from suppliers with different product categories, for each category various suppliers existing. For a good management, the shop requires a software program that will offer information about the stock at the end of each day.

The program will allow:
a) adding of a new product (code, product name, quantity) at the end of a day;
b) listing the products from a category;
c) stock situation for all products or just for a certain product.

To do
- Design and implement a Java application for the given statement problem.